Getting it Right for Every Learner - Supporting Learning

Barthol Chapel Primary School is a school where everyone works together as a community to create an ethos where all the children are nurtured, respected, included, inspired and motivated in reaching their full potential, not only academically, but as confident individuals ready to actively grasp and follow their dreams in the future.

Barthol Chapel Primary School Vision

As a Rights Respecting School, our school vision endorses the Scottish Commissioner's vision for children and young people. We firmly believe and strive to ensure that our children have consistent, co-ordinated support, when they need it through the approach, 'Getting it right for every child' placing the child at the centre of their learning, fully involving and including children in their learning and the assessment of their learning. We actively encourage the views of Barthol Chapel children to ensure all children are treated fairly, respected and safe.

Inclusion

At Barthol Chapel Primary School we believe that all children are entitled to a wide and empowering range of knowledge, skills and values.

Inclusion means ensuring the participation and highest achievement of all. Inclusive practices recognise and value the richness of diversity and develop appropriate responses to meet everyone's needs.*

Core Values

Preparing the Whole Child for the Whole World

We are committed to the principles of Getting it Right for Every Child (GIRFEC) which along with the four capacities of Curriculum for Excellence form the foundation of our of educational programmes. These core values are part of the planned curriculum, woven into the very fabric of school life.

Four Capacities of Curriculum for Excellence; confident Individuals, responsible citizens, successful learners and effective contributors*

Well-being indicators are the basic requirements for all children and young people to grow and develop and to reach their full potential. Children and young people progress differently depending on their circumstances, but every child and young person has the right to expect appropriate support from adults to allow them to develop as fully as possible across each of the Well-being indicators.

Barriers to learning may arise from, for example, specific learning difficulties, disability, social, emotional or behavioural needs, bereavement or family issues, etc. Additional support may also be required to ensure progress in learning for the gifted and able, looked after children and young people, young carers, Travellers, asylum seekers and those for whom English is not a first language.

Targeted support also encompasses children and young people requiring more choices and more chances to achieve their potential. This 'targeted' support is usually, but not exclusively, delivered by staff with additional training and expertise.

All practitioners have a responsibility to provide effective learning activities which give learners choices around tasks and activities and create active learning opportunities in a challenging and supportive climate.

Through designing appropriate learning experiences across the curriculum in every context and setting, barriers are addressed and all children and young people can access learning to enable them to achieve at the highest level of which they are capable. This is especially applicable to planning for children and young people who may need additional support of some kind on their learning journey.

'SHANARRI'

These well-being indicators are used to assess and plan for each individual:

Safe
Healthy
Achieving
Nurtured
Active
Respected
Responsible
Included

Every child and young person is entitled to support to enable them to gain as much as possible from the opportunities which Curriculum for Excellence can provide.

The Education Additional Support for Learning (Scotland) Act 2014*

It is important to note that children and young people can benefit from additional or targeted support, tailored to their individual circumstances. This could be at any point of their learning journey for some or throughout the journey.

Additional Support Needs

Children can experience difficulties to learning for many reasons, indeed any factor which causes a barrier to learning, whether that factor relates to social, emotional, cognitive, linguistic, disability or family circumstances, for example:

- Failure to master basic skills
- Difficulties with concepts and processes
- Difficulties in middle or higher order reading skills beyond the basic first stages of decoding
- Difficulties caused by work not being appropriately differentiated for the ability of the pupil or work inappropriate for their level of maturity
- Frequent absences or a fragmented education
- Children experiencing an unsettled home life, looked after children

Children and young people need to be Safe, Healthy, Achieving, Nurtured, Active, Respected, Responsible and Included (also known as SHANARRI or the Wellbeing Indicators) in order to achieve their potential. The Scottish Government also identifies that these wellbeing indicators need to be met for children and young people to be confident individuals, effective contributors, successful learners and responsible citizens.

The processes described in this document have been approved by the GIRFEC Management Group which has senior members from each partner organisation. The processes provide a practical and structured way of working which enables us to achieve the GIRFEC vision in our day to day work. It is a three stage process (Staged Intervention Process) which sets out best practice when assessing and meeting the needs of children and young people. It applies to all children and young people and to all the sectors which provide services to them.

Addressing Concerns – The 5 GIRFEC Questions

When a concern is identified about a child or young person, you should ask yourself the 5 GIRFEC questions:-

1. What is getting in the way of this child or young person's wellbeing?
2. Do I have all the information I need to help this child or young person?
3. What can I do now to help this child or young person?
4. What can my agency do to help this child or young person?
5. What additional help, if any, may be needed from others?

CHILD PROTECTION

Where there is a potential child protection concern, child protection processes must be followed as detailed in the Child Protection Policy.

Contained in the next few pages are the Staged Intervention Process adopted at Barthol Chapel School for identifying, recording, assessing, planning and reviewing needs to meet Additional Needs in a child or young person.

Universal Support

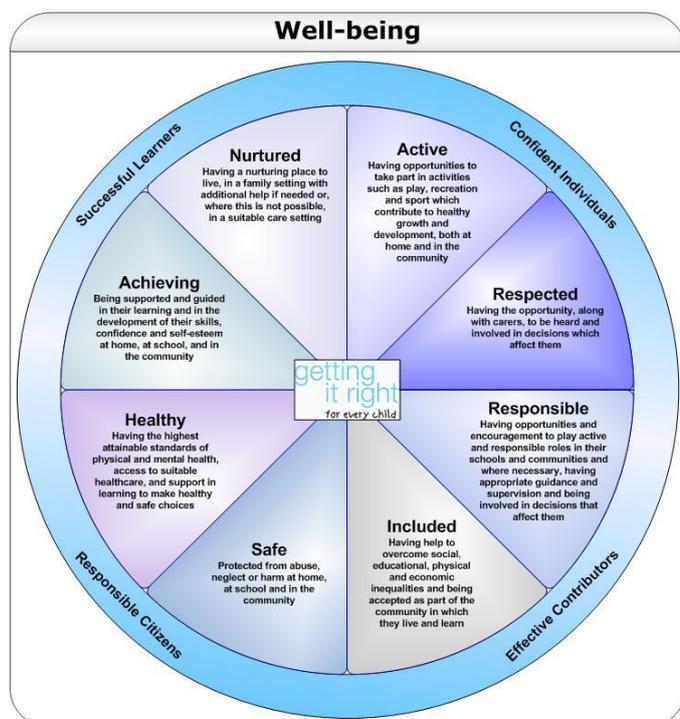

Supporting learning underpins the delivery of Curriculum for Excellence for all children and young people and it is the responsibility of all practitioners and partners to deliver this universal entitlement within their own teaching environments.

All learners at Barthol Chapel School have frequent and regular opportunities to discuss their learning with their class teacher who knows them well and can act as a mentor, helping them to set appropriate goals for the next stages in learning. All children are involved in planning and reflecting on their own learning through formative assessment self and peer evaluation. Time is allocated to enable quality discussion to ensure that children recognise that they are included and valued. Learning conversations are used to identify and capture evidence of progress and achievements across settings and contexts, with a focus on skills, knowledge and attributes underpinning the four capacities. Also through discussion children and young people experience personalisation and choice within their curriculum. This includes identifying and planning opportunities for achievement which focus on the learning and progress which has been made through activities across the full range of contexts and settings.

If a concern is raised by a child, parent or staff member a holistic overview of progress and personal development is taken to enable early identification of barriers to learning.

Getting it Right for Every Child (GIRFEC) highlight the importance of effective and sustained early intervention practices. These practices help to ensure that appropriate action is taken to provide the right level of support for children who are at risk of not achieving their full potential.

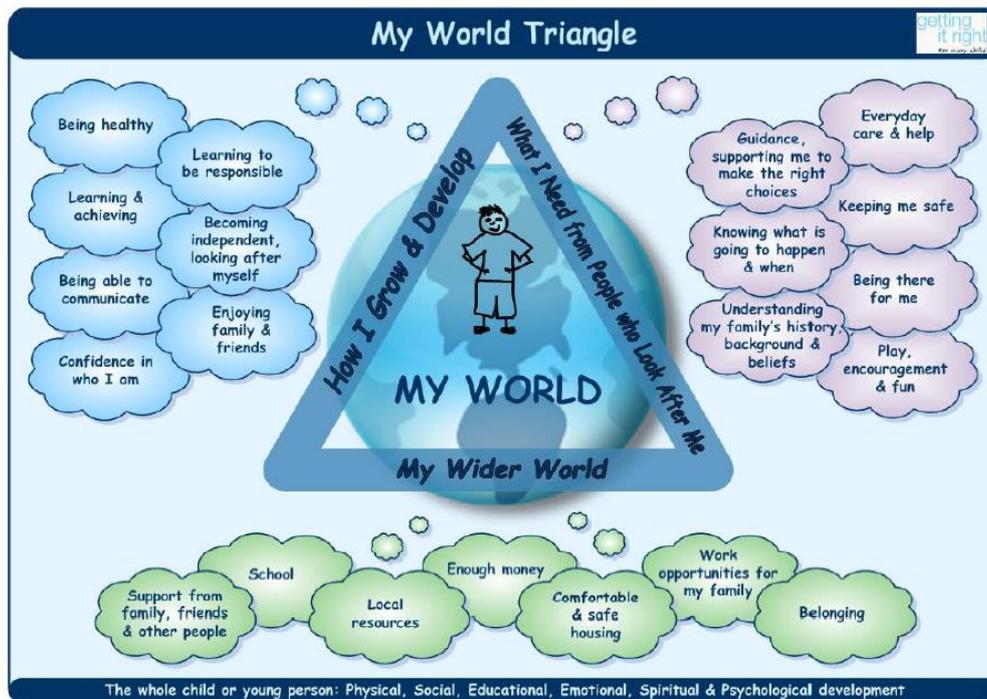

Teachers shape the learning environment to meet the needs of learners. To do this, they need to know their learners well – as learners. This means that teachers need to consider whether the repertoire of learning and teaching approaches they use will deliver the aims and purposes of Curriculum for Excellence.

Aberdeenshire Council Support Manual – Education through Care

This electronic Support Manual describes in practical terms how to meet the needs of all children and young people, with an emphasis on those who are vulnerable or who require additional support.

Capturing the Holistic Picture

All staff at Barthol Chapel School are committed and contribute to keeping up to date records of children and young people's progress, achievements and views.

Records are based on evidence of learning and take the form of learning conversations, best work folders, achievement records and target setting. Learners and staff select what best demonstrates the 'latest and best' exemplars of learning and achievement. Effective recording helps staff to ensure that appropriate support and challenge in learning is in place for each child and young person. It can be used to share success with staff, learners and parents.

Achievement

Achievements are recognised and celebrated in collaboration with the learner e.g. assembly sharing learning, best work folder, certificates etc. By providing children and young people with opportunities to reflect on key selected evidence of their achievements, they will better understand significant success, identify next steps in their learning and explain what has been learned to others (such as those involved in the next stages in the learning journey).

Multi Agency Working

All our plans are built on Curriculum for Excellence and the GIRFEC principles, and we have a number of different planning processes described below in line with Aberdeenshire Council guidance and policy to ensure that we support children fully in reaching their potential and support children in overcoming barriers to learning.

Currently Aberdeenshire Council are streamlining planning process and will be moving towards a single child's plan.

- Multi-Agency Action Planning Meetings,
- Single Agency Child's Plan
- MAP – Managing Accessibility Plan
- Integrated Children's Services Plan

Multi Agency action planning guidance provides a practical and structured process which enables us to achieve the GIRFEC vision in our day to day work.

It is a three stage process which sets out best practice when assessing and meeting the needs of children and young people. It applies to all children and young people and to all sectors providing services to them.

This guidance will provide you with a step-by-step guide through the separate stages of this process

Named Person

Every young person in Scotland has the right to a Named Person – someone who can support them and their family if things aren't going well. Mr Anderson our Head Teacher is the named person for the children and families in our school.
